Special Day for Special Kids at the New York Transit Museum

Free admission and fun activities for children with disabilities and their families

October 16, 2016 from 10am – 12pm

The New York Transit Museum will open early on October 16th to welcome kids with disabilities and their families for a Special Day for Special Kids! Co-sponsored by Extreme Kids & Crew, the event is part of the Museum's ongoing effort to offer programs that make its extensive collection accessible to all. During the Special Day festivities, kids with disabilities and their family members will enjoy free, exclusive access to the Museum from 10am till public opening at 11am, and special activities will be available for all Museum visitors till noon.

This Special Day for Special Kids will celebrate our favorite NYC subway lines. Families are encouraged to dress up in their favorite subway line colors and are invited to participate in train line themed activities. Every guest will have the opportunity to walk through historic turnstiles, sit in the driver's seat of a NYC bus, and explore over twenty different historic train cars on the Museum's platform.

Light refreshments will be served in the Museum's lunchroom and sensory-friendly DJ REBORN will provide entertainment. Kids and parents can also take a break and relax in the Museum's chill-out room, a quiet space where puzzles and sensory toys will be provided.

At Special Day for Special Kids, attendees can play and learn at their own pace and get social with other kids in a safe environment where expert Museum staff are available to assist when needed. Guests will enjoy all the Museum has to offer and benefit from the availability of special activities led by Museum Educators, a cool-down space for quiet relaxation and a big museum reserved for these very special visitors.

Special Day for Special Kids is currently sold out.
